Periodontia for the General Practitioner*

By Floyd E. Lytle, D.D.S., Cincinnati, Ohio

Possibly other practitioners have better routines than that which follows, but the one used as an example here has served our purpose well. It consists of three phases: visual examination, mouth examination, and x-ray.

After the patient has been seated in the chair by the receptionist, and the hygienist has made a preliminary examination, the doctor is called and introduced to the patient.

The doctor starts a conversation to put the patient at his ease and to observe his tone for speech defects. If a speech defect is apparent, the doctor looks for deformities of face or breathing that may cause lisping or other abnormalities. He, then, inquires into the nature of the visit. If the condition is not so serious as to be detected immediately, he observes the occlusion, noting the mouth in open and closed positions, missing teeth, arch formation, mal-posed teeth. By giving the patient a piece of beeswax about the size of a stick of gum, the following things can be observed: the side on which he places the wax will indicate his usual working side; the amount of exertion he uses and which teeth are functioning can be determined; the mobility of the teeth can be observed by digital examination. The shifting of the teeth sidewise should also be noted to see if there is any interference in the later movement. In the meantime, a mental and written record of the patient's case should be made.

TUTORING SERVICE

In the third part of the examination, after full mouth x-rays, including bite wings and study models, have been made, the doctor should start the tutoring service. I agree with Dr. J. Lewis Blass, who says, "Patient education is a natural function of the dentist, and its application, when its worth is accepted and proper thought given to it, is rewarding to the dentist and the patient alike."

With the aid of other pictures, impart to the patient an understanding of his own mouth and the necessity for his x-rays. Exhibit a model mouth and point out the difference between it and his.

It is imperative that the patient be given a thorough understanding of his problem and be impressed with the importance of his part of the treatment in carrying out instructions. The comprehensive understanding of his problem lessens his fears and tenseness, and makes a more intelligent, cooperative individual of him. He is more tolerant, too, when he receives his bill.

Next, check the various pockets and the depth of them; then, try to find the true centric position of the teeth by use of the hickocks retruder. When the retruder is used, it relaxes the jaw by pushing the condyle of the mandible into the glenoid fossa. When the right and left side of the mandible are as far back as possible, have the patient tap the jaw slowly into centric position. The first cusp that touches is the one that is in premature contact. When the teeth are completely closed, note the difference in the jaw relation between this premature contact and the closed position. The amount of change is the damaging factor in an unbalanced mouth.

As Doctor Brown said in the August, 1946, issue of Dental Digest, "In the abnormal, the premature contact of some cusp or incline plane produces a muscular unbalance when the teeth slide from the interference into occlusion. This results in disharmony between centric relation and centric occlusion."

Time will not permit me to go into the office routine of balancing occlusion by grinding. However, it has become as important an office routine as taking a full mouth radiograph. In Doctor Brown's article, he describes this very carefully and to those interested in this worthwhile procedure, I heartily recommend that they read it.

After making certain that all teeth have been brought into harmonious relationship, give the patient's mouth a final check-up. Have him close his jaw quickly several times, then invite remarks from him. Try to get his feeling about the results, because maintenance of the balance in occlusion achieved by this treatment will depend to a great extent on his comfort. It has been our experience that his remarks are usually the same, "This is the first time all my teeth have met."

This routine is for the usual or average case of mal-occlusion. The advanced case involves more than grinding. It may involve fixed appliances, such as inlays and crowns, fixed bridges, or removable appliances. It may involve extractions or it may, in extreme cases, involve all three. When teeth are tilted toward one another, contracting support is necessary. If this occurs in the posterior, fixed bridgework is the only satisfactory treatment.

This office procedure has been outlined in detail because much of it applies to the next three subjects: correcting Vincent's infection, treatment of early periodontal disturbances, and the treatment of periodontoclasia. Up to the diagnosis of the x-ray, the routine is the same.

VINCENT'S INFECTION

Vincent's infection is a gingival disease and acts somewhat differently from other gingival disturbances. The spirochete of vincent's and the bacillus fusiformis are the organisms accepted as the cause of the disease. It is widely understood that these organisms are found in the mouth of almost everyone but do not result in serious consequences unless the patient's physical condition is below normal and mouth resistance to bacteria has decreased. Therefore, we feel that routine smears are not a necessary diagnostic step. These organisms being anaerobic in nature are found in greater numbers around the gingival tissue, such as in periodontal pockets; around partially erupted teeth, especially third molars; and ill-fitting fillings and crowns. Whether or not this disease is communicable is still a debatable question.

For some time this infection has been classified in two stages, the acute and the chronic. The acute stage is one most commonly encountered by both the dentist and the patient, while the chronic is the more serious in the long run.

The acute stage results in an inflamed and swollen gum tissue with a grayish slough. The slightest irritation causes excessive bleeding. In many cases, the glands of the neck are somewhat swollen and the patient manifests a rising temperature. The chronic stage usually results in a swelling of the gingival tissue with little or no pain. Breaking down of the interdental papillae with a large excessive tissue which resembles an advanced case of the periodontal disturbances is apparent. After the diagnosis, the treatment for the patient is divided into two parts: office treatment and home care.

The Vincent's patient is not ordinarily the regular patient. In most cases he is an irresponsible individual who is a heavy smoker and likes cocktail parties. The application of psychology in the treatment of Vincent's Infection is a most important factor.

When a patient has a good old-fashioned toothache, he says he will give $50.00 to get rid of the pain, but when the tooth has been extracted and the toothache gone, $5.00 is a robber's price for the surgical operation. This is more than true of the patient having Vincent's infection. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance to point out to him at his first visit the seriousness of his case, and its possible results. Impress him with the fact that the sooner his case is cured, the fewer the treatments that will be required; thereby lessening the cost.

The office treatment in acute cases depends a lot upon the seriousness of the case. In the normal acute Vincent's, spray the mouth with a warm hydrogen peroxide solution and remove all matter around the necks of the teeth.

Dr. Merritt once said, "Show me a tooth that has a clean neck and I will show you a tooth that isn't sensitive unless there is a lot of trauma."

With the aid of cotton rolls, dry out one-quarter of the mouth at a time and treat all the infected tissue with ammoniacal silver nitrate. Silver nitrate attacks only diseased tissue and gives almost instant relief from severe pain. Care should be taken in using silver nitrate to see that it does not come in contact with porcelain fillings unless mineral oil or vaseline has been applied first to protect them. After the silver nitrate has been in the mouth for two or three minutes, have the patient wash his mouth out with a saturated solution of warm salt water. Other precautions should be taken in the use of excessive silver nitrate so that it does not overflow and cauterize other parts of the mouth, especially on the muco-buccal fold. This treatment should be repeated for two or three days. On the third visit, a marked change is usually evident if the patient has been carrying out the prescribed home treatment. This may seem a radical treatment to some practitioners, but I have found that it eliminates the pain and clears up the infection quicker than any other I have used.

In acute cases, it isn't advisable to do any surgical scaling or extractions until the mouth begins to respond to treatment. When the case appears to be under control, the surgical treatments may be started. This consists of removing the deposits around the teeth and gums, by scaling and polishing tooth and root surfaces; restoration of various tooth structure, removal of septic teeth and roots, and, of course, a check of occlusion for traumatized teeth.

Mild cases of infection may be corrected by prophylactic procedures; that is, frequent mouth irrigation to remove infectious debris. The mouth may be swabbed out or sprayed with a hydrogen peroxide solution followed by a non-irritating solution of acrid-violet.

Treatment for chronic cases is similar to that for acute cases in both home care and office procedure; that is, first, use of hydrogen peroxide spray and application of ammoniacal silver nitrate packs.

(I quite agree with Dr. Prime, who once said, "Give me twelve well-trained girls and all the ammoniacal silver nitrate I need and I'll do more preventive dentistry than 100 dentists can do." I not only use it for early periodontal disturbances and for treatment of Vincent's infection but I routinely use it to sterilize every posterior cavity.)

At the end of the patient's second visit, a marked recession of the gingival tissue is observable. At this point, deep scaling can be done.

At the time office treatment is started and the patient has indicated his willingness to comply fully in carrying out instructions, the home treatment should be outlined to him. Adequate instruction on home care is one of the most important phases of periodontia because ninety per cent of the success is attributable to the effective use of the toothbrush, cleaning, and massaging of the gums.

First, emphasize the importance of a cathartic to insure proper elimination.

Second, since dietary deficiency may contribute to the progress of periodontal disturbances, and proper diet and nutrition play such an important role in reconstructing the mouth, prescribe a well-balanced diet rich in vitamins A, B, C, and D, and plenty of fruit juices. Caution against eating spicy foods, hot or cold foods, or any foods that tend to irritate the gums.

Third, caution the patient against the use of alcohol and tobacco, and other habits which tend to lower the resistance. Recommend plenty of rest, and the development of clean living habits. Warn the individual that temporary relief of pain does not mean he is cured. Insufficient treatments only change the case to a chronic or pyorrhetic case.

If the physical condition is run down, vitamins may be used to good advantage as a booster. But normally, the only persons who need to be concerned with taking vitamins are those who eat drug store lunches. Last of all, the patient should be cautioned to get new toothbrushes; to boil all articles that touch the mouth to prevent spreading the disease; and to use a mouth wash, made by dissolving two teaspoons of ordinary three per cent hydrogen peroxide in eight ounces of warm water, every half hour. In some cases, the penicillin troches, one thousand units, may be included in the prescription.

Vincent's infection is often mistaken for pyorrhea but it may be healed so completely that there will be no return of the disease. The only assurance against re-occurrence of it, however, is by regular prophylaxis treatments and continuous home care.

The patient's second visit will reveal whether he has carried out his instructions. If he has, it is well to praise him. If not, warn him that unless he cooperates better, it is a waste of time and money to continue further treatments. This sort of reasoning usually gets favorable results.

PERIODONTOCLASIA

A great deal of the office routine—the diagnosis, tutoring of the patient, office and home treatment involved in balancing the occlusion and the treating of Vincent's infection—applies to patients having early periodontal disturbance and periodontoclasia, and need not be repeated.

Patients whose gums do not respond by the end of the first week may be classed in the early periodontal disturbance group. This condition occurs when the gum tissue has loosened so that it does not re-attach itself by the treatment outlined above. To refer to Dr. Blanquie again, he points out that the subgingival space should be made smooth to prevent adhesion of calculus, and to minimize the re-entry of irritating elements into the detached area which would cause reinfection.

The treatment of periodontoclasia involves surgery or gingivectomy. Gingivectomy may be performed many ways; medicine, caustics, knife and electric cautery. Pyorrhea is a foci of infection and this foci can be eliminated by surgery. Surgery is the method I use.

When a patient has this condition, try to find the cause. There is no use treating the disease unless the cause is eliminated. If the case is extreme, explain as outlined previously the seriousness to the patient, the treatment, his obligation, and the cost. If he assumes an indifferent attitude, give him the choice of having all teeth extracted or assuming his obligation in making the treatment a success. The amount of work to be done in one operation depends, of course, in the number of teeth involved and the individual. However, one-quarter of the mouth is the usual amount but in many cases one-half of the mouth is permissible.

Some dentists advocate the conserva-

NEWS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

MANILA SCHOOL ACKNOWLEDGES BOOKS

The College of Oral and Dental Surgery of Manila has acknowledged the receipt of eight packages containing books and other pieces of dental literature which were donated to the school by readers of the FORTNIGHTLY REVIEW. (The biggest gift was from an associate member of the Chicago Dental Society.) In the letter acknowledging the gift, Dr. Eladio R. Aldecoa, President of the College, states that "the name of your Society will be placed as the foremost donor of our library."

THREE BRANCH SOCIETIES SUBSCRIBE TO TELEPHONE COURSE

Three branches of the Chicago Dental Society—West Suburban, North Suburban and North Side—will participate in the postgraduate extension course which will be offered this fall by the University of Illinois College of Dentistry.

The course is entitled "Current Advances in Dentistry" and more than eighty-five dental societies from coast to coast will participate in the novel program.

Dr. C. A. Hanson, 715 Lake St., Oak Park, is in charge of arrangements for the West Suburban Branch which will meet in Oak Park. Dr. Paul Wilcox, 603 Main St., Evanston, is handling arrangements for the North Suburban Branch which will convene in Evanston; while Dr. Edmund B. Kirby, 2735 W. Devon Ave., will take care of the North Side Branch arrangements, with sessions in the Edgewater Beach Hotel.

In addition to these, a special downtown course has been planned for the convenience of dentists whose local branches have not enrolled as a separate group. Arrangements have been made to put on the course at the Illini Center in the LaSalle Hotel. Dr. W. R. Gubbins, 4010 W. Madison St., is serving as chairman of that meeting.

The telephone series will be fed from Chicago by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to participating societies. It will have charge of all technical details and has given assurance of clear, unbroken transmission. The series of six lectures will emanate from the University of Illinois College of Dentistry, located in the Chicago Medical Center District.

INTERNATIONAL ANESTHESIA RESEARCH SOCIETY

The Board of Governors of the International Anesthesia Research Society has issued a cordial invitation to the members of the Chicago Dental Society to attend the special Dental Session during the Twenty-fourth Annual Congress of Anesthetists.

The traditional Dental Session will be held on Tuesday evening, October 4, 1949, at 8 p.m. in the Casino of the Congress Hotel.

The Board also has asked the Board of Directors of the Chicago Dental Society to suggest names and subjects of speakers which would be attractive to C.D.S. members. A paper on "Pentothol Sodium Anesthesia as Used in Dental Surgery Technique in the Office", by Jerry Milhon, D.D.S., of Springfield, has already been accepted.

BOOK REVIEW

Biochemistry of the Teeth: by Henry M. Leicester, Ph.D., St. Louis, Missouri; 306 pages; price, $5.00; C. V. Mosby Co., St. Louis, Missouri, 1949.

This is a worth-while book for most dentists. It contains a wealth of information regarding the physical formation and chemical composition of the teeth and the manifold factors which bear an influence. For those of us who have been out of school a generation or so, it may come as a revelation to learn how many of the so-called "facts" about the chemical and physical construction of the teeth, which we were taught as students, are now shown to be incorrect and how many of our concepts in this area need to be brought up-to-date. As a matter of fact, this book makes it clear that most of our exact knowledge about the teeth is only of quite recent origin and, worse yet, that this knowledge is still quite incomplete.

This is not a textbook within the usual meaning of the term. The author has made an exhaustive study of the entire international literature covering all phases of biochemistry of the teeth. He then proceeds to give a complete review of this literature, concluding each chapter with a brief résumé and giving his personal interpretation and evaluation. While this procedure gives one a bird's-eye picture of the present status and literature of any phase of this fascinating subject, it gives us little or no original contribution by the author. Thus the book must be considered more as an excellent review of the literature than as an original textbook.

Because of the highly technical nature of the subject matter, it was probably difficult to avoid having it become rather dry reading. It would seem, though, that a greater effort could have been made to present the material in a more interesting fashion, especially by adding more illustrations, of which there are far too few. For example, the subject of Birefringence, which is very technical (for a dentist), to say the least, would have become a lot easier to understand if several drawings, illustrating the text at suitable points, had been added. Also, in future editions it would be well to eliminate those excessively long paragraphs, many of which extend over one or two pages. I even remember one paragraph that stretched over four pages, and that is really long!

To me, as a practicing dentist, the most interesting and valuable part of the book is the last chapter on dental caries. It contains not only a very good general review of the current literature and theories about caries, free from the usual bias, but the author has made a fine attempt to interpret these theories and correlate them scientifically, so that we now can better understand them in their true relation to each other. That alone makes the book worth having and reading.—F. Van Minden.

How To Become a Doctor: by George R. Moon, A.B., M.A., Examiner and Recorder, University of Illinois College of Medicine, Dentistry and Pharmacy; 131 pages; price, $2.00; The Blakiston Company, Philadelphia, Pa.

For the first time in history, someone has put down in writing the inside information which is so essential for anyone planning a career in medicine, dentistry, pharmacy or an allied profession. Nothing is left to the imagination. Beginning with the quantitative requirements for admission to medical school, the author proceeds in orderly fashion to cover such subjects as the selection of the school, the application for admission, the interview with members of the admission

NEWS OF THE BRANCHES

WEST SUBURBAN

Vacation time seems to be in full swing with everyone either just coming back or going to get that much needed rest and relaxation. . . . Ev Westland is going to the Lake-of-the-Woods in Canada for a month. He has found a lake where the fish beg him to be caught. Sounds good—we'll be waiting for some of that excess loot, Ev. . . . Saw Ed Sproc, who's visiting in Oak Park and telling us of the wonders of St. Petersburg, Florida, where he is now practicing. . . . Ed Moore took a trip thru the Southwest and went through twelve states. On his way, he stopped in his home town, Reidsville, Georgia, where the residents begged him to practice. Seems like there's an acute shortage of dentists; but Ed came back anyway, going by way of Tallahassee, Warm Springs, and Washington, D. C. He picked up a little dental history in Bainbridge, Ohio, where the first dental school was founded in 1820. If you want to see some really antique dental equipment, Ed vouches that the museum in Bainbridge has enough to satisfy the most curious. . . . Just saw Dave J. Thompson, who went to the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, to take an advanced course in orthodontia. Dave and Mrs. Thompson then motored through the Allegheny Mountains to Williamsburg, Virginia, and up the east coast to home. Said the scenery was beautiful going through the mountains—but Elmhurst looked good when he got home. . . . Congratulations to Chuck and Mrs. Lewis on their new daughter, Kathleen. . . . Just found out that Fred Schulz is now a farmer. He bought a large farm near Dundee and commutes to his office in Elmhurst. . . . J. Van Den Brink has returned from an extensive tour of the eastern states. . . . We extend our condolences to Bill Fellman, whose wife died on the 25th of July of a protracted illness. . . . Yours truly is beating a dead line to get up in the north woods of Wisconsin for a couple of weeks.—George E. Fleming, Assistant Branch Correspondent.

WEST SIDE

Gathering information in the West side during these summer months is harder than catching a sixty-eight pound muskie. I have been able, though, to stir up a few notes of interest regarding our fellow travelers. . . . J. B. Bezman left for Florida, where he hopes to do some deep-sea fishing. . . . George Hochman has a farm in South Haven, Michigan, and is turning into a regular farmer. George isn't the only farmer in the West side. Bernard Rodin is cultivating a large peach orchard in Union Pier, Michigan. If you want to know anything about crops, just ask them. . . . Bill Martin has left for Estes Park, Colorado, where he is going to attempt to climb Long's Peak. . . . Andy Nielsen has left for northern Wisconsin, where he hopes to spend three weeks just catching fish. . . . Another fisherman, George Barnes, is in Minnesota. . . . I. J. Chrastka is taking a six thousand mile trip throughout the Midwest. . . . Ben Berlin is leaving for about a month's tour of Canada. . . . Leo Cahill left for Magdovill Island, somewhere in Lake Superior. The boys want to know if he took his golf prize with him. They say it gets cold at night up there. . . . George Walls was an active participant at the recent Shriner convention. . . . Mort Herzon is giving rumba lessons at the Nippersink resort. . . . Howard Michener's wife recently gave birth to a baby boy. Congratulations, Pop.

... John J. O'Connell can't be seen anywhere since he got his new car. ... Marv Chapin's father-in-law, Dr. E. H. Myers, recently passed away in South Bend, Indiana. Dr. Myers was one of the earliest practitioners and was one of the founders of the South Bend Tuberculosis Hospital. ... I just received a report that John Reilly is going to give a book review very shortly. We're all glad that John is well again and back in his office. ... Vandals broke into the Marbro Theatre building and damaged the medico-dental offices. Maurice Perlin's office was involved. While we're calling the detectives, we would like to know who put cement in Nate Potkin's office door lock. ... The forthcoming Forum meetings have been changed to the Midwest Hotel. Sam Sherman is chairman. Watch this space for announcements of the interesting programs that are being planned. ... Bill Gubbins is taking over the arrangements of the University of Illinois telephone extension course. Call him for any information or applications.—Irwin B. Robinson, Branch Correspondent.

ENGLEWOOD

The last part of July has caught us in the news' doldrums for sure this time. Our fellow members must be resting or are overcome by the heat or both. However, here's some news and it's all good. ... Ernie Borgerding has both shoulders to the wheel, holding the situation under control while Howard Strange is still tramping (merely a figure of speech) around Europe. ... Congratulations to L. G. Blanchette, who stopped off in Arizona on his way to the coast long enough to pass the State Board, which, from what we hear, is quite a feat. ... Jerry Wilher is still under the weather but is steadily improving; we're all glad to hear it, Jerry. ... Vince Milas spent a wonderful vacation at a little island near Mackinac. Vince highly recommends the place. ... At this writing, Frank O'Grady is vacationing in Michigan. ... Readers of a certain weekly news magazine were interested to see the name of G. G. Johnson at the beginning of that publication's article on the recent Shrine convention. We understand that he has been Director of Medinah's Oriental Band for the past eighteen years, in which capacity he has been largely responsible for that organization's excellence. ... That's all the news we could gather for you, perhaps you will be sure to send all your items of interest to our next correspondent, F. J. O'Grady, 7912 S. Halsted St., telephone HUmboldt 3-2223.—John L. Manning, Assistant Branch Correspondent.

C. Fujimoto is the proud owner of a new Super Buick and is driving to California. He expects to take in all the scenic spots en route. ... Earl Boyer is still making slow progress. ... Otto Mast is at home after his bout with the surgeon, but is still unable to be at the office. Drop in and see him or send a card. ... "Gramps" Libberton expects to be home but will have an extended convalescence. So he, too, will be happy to hear from you. Do it now—get those cards and let the boys know that you are thinking of them. ... Bill De Larye is off for a three-week fishing jaunt in the wilds of Canada. ... Take some pictures, Bill, to prove those fish stories. Good luck! ... Our director, Walt Dundon, is now seriously considering joining the Chicago police force; he has been cruising about in a squad car to get the feel of things. As yet, Walt hasn't decided which branch of the service he will join. Who knows, maybe we have a second Sherlock Holmes in our midst. ... Past-President Robert Wells is a new grandpa, which isn't too new an expression for "Gramps" Wells. We haven't seen any cigars yet, but mother and baby are doing very well. ... If you are going to the American Dental Association meeting at San Francisco and would like to fly, the Chicago Dental Society is sponsoring a charter flight. Further information appeared in the August 1 issue. ... It's too hot so will close up shop for this issue.

Send me your vacation cards, or telephone me at SOuth Chicago 8-1823.—

NORTH SUBURBAN

The day began dark and rainy, but North Suburban had a golf outing scheduled and many of the members who are real lovers of the game of golf had this day marked off to play golf. So, they rounded up their foursomes and descended on Skycrest Country Club determined to play golf, rain or shine. The weather, seeing that it was useless to do otherwise, conceded to these determined golfers and gave them "as pretty a golf day as you could hope for." Leo Tasto, a veteran golf outing chairman, and his committee had done a swell job of arranging, and the tournament ran off without a hitch or a hesitation. The dinner was excellent and there was an abundance of prizes. Lots of thanks, Leo, for the swell job you did. Note: We have heard that the golf committee was a good committee to be on. Isn't that right, Chronquist and Scott? Some highlights of the afternoon's golf were that Hexton broke a hundred for the first time, and he was very happy about it. He thought his lesson the preceding day was responsible for the good score, but "Pinky" Stine had a lesson the day before, too, from the same pro and——. Well, ask Stine about it. Wescott, who gave up the game ten years ago, returned to the greens and shot a nice game. Keep it up, Westy! Jim Lynch complained that Paul Wilcox and ex-correspondent MacLean drove too many, too far, and too straight down the fairway. Harrie Hall from Arlington Heights won all the money. What about high and low gross, the Peoria system, and the Blind Bogie? Well, I'm still trying to figure it all out. Anyway, everyone won a prize. . . . One highlight of the evening was that Bill "Bet 'em Sailor" Murray took bets on who would win golf prizes and he didn't lose a bet. Wise men take heed! Bill is in the know! Eddie Baumann lectured on a hunch system of betting on horses, which is one hundred per cent sure, IF the better is honest. Our editor, Jimmie Keith, was given some hard-earned recognition for his work on the FORTNIGHTLY REVIEW. We were very happy to know that he is really appreciated. Thanks, Dr. Oppice, for your nice words. . . . We have discovered that a few of the members took vacations recently. Axel Pedersen took two weeks in Wisconsin. Jim and Mrs. Keith were in Sayner, Wisconsin, for two weeks. Harry Chronquist divided his two weeks between Lake Cheteka and Copper Harbor, Michigan. . . . Other items of importance are that George Blech is the proud owner of seven brand new boxer puppies, and that Floyd Grover is now wearing dark glasses so that the girls won't follow him. . . . Bill Redlich sailed in the Mackinac races. He didn't win but had a swell time, in spite of the rough weather.—Milton Dawson, Assistant Branch Correspondent.

NORTHWEST SIDE

The Northwest Branch is justly proud of the achievement of Ed Friedrich in producing a sound film which has been accepted by the American Dental Association's Dental Health and Education Committee as worthy of professional and public attention. The undertaking was a very ambitious one and was the result of long, painstaking work and personal cost. The film is entitled, "Your Child's First Visit to the Dentist," and serves a long-felt need amongst dentists. Actually, the film deals with the conditioning to which the parent should subject the child before the visit. The two most common approaches are portrayed, with thumbs turned down on the sugar-coated preparation which denies the child knowledge of the nature of the treatment and attempts to make the visit a substitute for pleasurable play. The better method, as portrayed, asks the parent to help the child face realities through a frank discussion of the problem. Emphasis is placed upon the evil of the condition requiring treatment and the consequences of further neglect; then the child's personal responsibility is sought to be aroused so that he will understand the need for the treatment and will feel that he owes it to himself to correct the condition. Of course, this résumé cannot give a true picture of the film's real grip on the problem, for this the film has to be seen. And, that is just what the American Dental Association is going to make possible by having prints available for showing in all cities over the country. This is indeed a fine tribute to the branch's Ed Friedrich, whose long hours of unselfish toil are going to pay off for all of us. Not content with being producer, actor, editor, and angel for the film-making enterprises, Ed Friedrich, as chairman of the branch's Dental Health and Education Committee, met with members Gerson M. Gould, Ben Davidson, J. G. Brown, Clayton Crane, and Mark Spencer, to discuss the problem of the need for emergency dental care for wards of the Juvenile Court. Committee-men Jerome Gold and Chas. R. Carpenter, and Vice-Chairman Ashley Craig, who is on vacation, were not present. The committee referred the problem to H. P. Westaby, Chairman of the Public and Professional Relations Committee, who will bring up the problem before the main body in "The Loop." Anyhow, the members of the committee got a fine lunch provided by Chairman Friedrich. . . . Flash! The Northwest Branch will continue to meet at Stella's Restaurant on the second Tuesday of each month at the usual hour. Dinner tickets should be purchased promptly (and paid for the same way!). After several years of enjoyable sampling of Stella's culinary art, a modest effort was made to change the meeting place, but no other spot was found which offered so much in good food, service and accommodations. So, quite agreeably to everyone, it's Stella's again!! . . . The branch has its lighter moments too; viz., Gus Tilley's frantic efforts to find a golf course he can lick. When last heard from, he was hacking away at the sod on Mackinac Island for an 11 over par score. "T'was too hilly," he says! But his wife, Annie, almost equalled his score.

Well, try another course, Gus. . . . Alter and Mrs. Druckeroff celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with a big hotel shindig, with a multitude of friends and well-wishers on hand to sample the food and drink—makes your correspondent feel kinda old 'cause he remembers when. . . . Casimir J. Rogalski's son, Robert, will attend Mundelein College after compiling a brilliant record at Quigley Preparatory School—98.5%. Whew! . . . Telephone HUmboldt 6-0272 to report your news items.—J. S. Lebow, Branch Correspondent.

NORTH SIDE

This is getting monotonous. No, not the weather, but Jules Barrash winning low net again at the Northside golf outing. What about this, Dubrow? I understand you are now playing a terrific game and beating Sam Rosenberg too often. Burt Morrow, Walter Hoag, and B. Q. Smith have torn up Cog Hill Country Club course and are now working on the North side again, while Sid Goodney, Art Roe, Emory Greer, and George Olsson are practicing various places, to say nothing of the hundreds I have not mentioned. So, why don't you all plan to beat Jules next year? . . . The general opinion is that the outing was the usual good affair; however, some missed the cards and slot machines. Those who received prizes thought they were very fine, but those who didn't wished there had been more of them. I'm sure everyone will agree it was time well spent. . . . Let's pass a law preventing dental ailments in August, for practically every dentist is on vacation, or wants to be. . . . Sid Asher and Larry Schlocker took their families to Yellowstone and vicinity. . . . Al Mortensen just returned from his place in Michigan. . . . Van (Tweezer) Carmichael was eating twelve-pounders for lunch every day at Monahans Bear Lake, Camp Rennie, near Kenora, Ontario. . . . Ken Penhale is now in Canada and will probably try to do the same. . . .

SIXTH ANNUAL DENTAL SEMINAR

The complete program for the Sixth Annual Dental Medicine Seminar in Palm Springs, California, October 23-28, 1949, has been announced by Hermann Becks, M.D., D.D.S., of San Francisco, Seminar president.

Faculty members for the course include: Francis A. Arnold, Jr., B.S., D.D.S., Senior Dental Surgeon, U. S. Public Health Service; D. Harold Copp, M.D., Ph.D., Associate Professor of Physiology, University of California; Arthur C. Curtis, B.S., M.D., Professor and Director of the Department of Dermatology and Syphilology at the University of Michigan; Seymour M. Farber, M.D., Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine, University of California; Wilton Marion Krogman, Ph.B., M.A., Ph.D., Professor of Physical Anthropology, Graduate School of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania; Balint Orban, M.D., D.D.S., Director of Research, Colorado Dental Foundation, Colorado Springs; and Paul Popenoe, M.D., Director of the American Institute of Family Relations. Each one of these men is an authority in his respective field.

All facilities of the Desert Inn have been reserved for the Seminar and since the capacity of the resort is limited, participants are urged to make their reservations early. Write to: Miss Marion G. Lewis, Room 200, Hooper Foundation, U. C. Medical Center, San Francisco 22, California.

tive method; that is, taking away a little of the affected tissue at a time. As far as I am concerned, there is no conservative method for advanced periodontoclasia. I don't believe in cutting a dog's tail off a little at a time. I am in agreement with Dr. Orban of Chicago, who says, "To eliminate pyorrhea pockets, you have to go down to the bottom of the pocket."

Before beginning to operate, care should be exercised in inquiring into the patient's general health condition to learn whether he is a diabetic or has a heart condition. This, of course, should be determined on the patient's first or second visit.

There isn't time here to go into the technique of surgical pyorrhea, but I personally believe the general practitioner should perform these operations or should perform enough of them to learn their heartaches, their limitations, and their results.

After the periodontia and operative work is completed, the patient is then turned over to the hygienist, a very valued adjunct to any busy office. It is then suggested to the patient that he be placed on an annual prophylaxis contract. This type of contract is beneficial to both the patient and the dentist. It assures the dentist the opportunity of working on a healthy mouth.

The fee for the contract is paid in advance. This fee includes three, and in some cases, four prophylaxis a year and a full mouth x-ray or bite wings at least once a year. The payment of the fee in advance obligates the patient to go routinely to the dentist for his periodic check-up.

A well-trained assistant and secretary can be of invaluable assistance. They may be trained to give the patient instructions in mouth hygiene, the type of toothbrush and the proper use of them, the use of stimulators in building up cell resistance through stimulation. Their work is a part of the treatment and should be included in the fee.

The routine outlined here may seem very amateurish to the specialist or dentist doing periodontia in his office. But, when I see or hear of the thousands of mouths that are edentulous when just a little understanding of periodontia could have been employed, it makes me feel like pleading with the men of my profession who are doing general dentistry to think twice before extracting a tooth. All it may need is a good periodontia treatment.

I am convinced that practical periodontia can and should be carried on in the office of the general practitioner. If our treatments, however, are to be a complete success, we may as well face the fact that we are going to have to do a little academic work along with our practice. Not only are we going to have to educate the public on the necessity of the service, and our patients on their part in the treatments, but we are going to have to inoculate ourselves with a feeling of obligation to the public. A professional method of teaching home care is profitable both to the dentist and the patient, and is certainly deserving of comparable compensation the same as professional instruction in any other service. The sooner members of the dental profession realize this and assess fees in keeping with time-consuming diagnosis and thorough prophylaxis education, and the more preventive dentistry we practice, the better service we will render ourselves and the public. And that is what we are in business for—to serve the public. We can't overlook this fact and still build successful practices.

committee, success and failure in medical school and an outline of the courses to be taken.

Much of the information that is applicable to medicine applies also to dentistry and pharmacy, so it takes only a little elaboration to describe the preparation necessary for these two professions. Dental schools have admission committees that operate very much as do those of the medical schools and they are equally interested in securing high grade men with the best possible ability, ideals and character. The predental candidate who wishes to be reasonably sure of acceptance must have, at the present time, a scholastic average of approximately B. Of course some will be admitted with a C average if they have other qualifications that justify their choice, in the eyes of the admission committee.

Since the practice of dentistry requires digital dexterity to a marked degree, the ability to do things well with the hands is of prime importance. Admission committees inquire into the experiences and hobbies of students in an effort to find out if such activities have a bearing on developing skills useful to the dentist.

The student in high school or college who is interested or thinks he may become interested in medicine, dentistry or pharmacy can find no better source of information than this book. Here are found all the details correctly and clearly written. Here, truly, is inside information.
